well known in the annals of Haywood and Jackson, a citizen of the last when it was part of the territory of Haywood. Jos. Keener was a man of mark in his day, a man of sound judgment, large practical common sense, a fine speaker, a man of keen wit and terrible powers of sarcasm, genial, yet feared, popular, influential and successful. He was a member of the House in 1844-5, and of the Senate in 1863, and may have been in the Legislature at other times. Few men of the county have left so deep an impression upon the memories of the people or the history of the county. His family may boast of a kind of antiquity in Jackson.
